When he was fat he was very, very fat, and when he was lean, a skeleton. In these two alternating conditions of being William Dubury lived for a long time in London, England. Once, when he was lean, he exhibited himself as a curiosity. But success, strange as it may seem, spoiled his business. He got money enough to procure food with which to gorge himself, and soon he rounded out with flesh the bones he had been curiously obtrusive. Having spent all his money, Dubury had no resource but to again become a skeleton. Nature had made too many changes, however, and when he reached his only state in which he could live by the monetary contributions of sight-seers he died from exhaustion.

A man who is said to be neither an adventurer nor a lunatic, and who lives in a small town in Tuscany, Italy, declares that he is the Duke Reichstadt, the son of Napoleon I. He is said to resemble the Emperor, as he was late in life. He says that in 1814 the child, who was afterward known as the Duke of Reichstadt, was substituted for him, and that he was first confined to a Dominican and afterward to a Knight of Malta. For sixty years this claimant has lived in Tuscany on a modest income provided mysteriously, and although he has always declared himself the Duke of Reichstadt he has never attempted to have his claim attested.

The word lady is compounded of two Saxon words, leaf or leaf, signifying a leaf of bread, and dan, to give, or to save. In olden times it was customary for those families whom God had blessed with affluence to give away regularly a portion of bread or other food to poor families in their respective parishes and neighborhoods, and on such occasions the "lady" or mistress of the household distributed the daily or weekly dole. Hence she was called the "laf-dy," or the "bread-giver," and it is probably from this hospitable custom that to this day English ladies carve and serve the meat at their own tables.

The latest invention in dolls is a waxen lady, who, when wound up and given a high chair at the table, reaches out her arms, seizes a bit of bread, and slowly puts it in her mouth. When she has done this a certain number of times, it is necessary to open her back, remove the food, and wind her up again.

Prof. P. B. WILSON, Baltimore, Late Assistant to the great German Chemist, Baron J. von Liebig.

IMPORTED ONLY BY THE

PETERSBURG, VA.

DIRECTORS:

VICE-PRESIDENT—ROBT. A. MARTIN, of Robert A. Martin & Co.

WM. R. GRIFFITH, of Baltimore, General Agent.
Petersburg, Va., December 17th, 1873.

To the Farmers and Guano Dealers of North Carolina and Virginia:
Gentlemen: To the many of you with whom I am personally acquainted, I would say that of good results from GUANAHANI GUANO, I have not the slightest doubt. Containing, as it does, in such large amounts, the essentials for plant food, success from its application would seem certain. It is of animal origin, and will be absorbed by the soil, and its ingredients will be soluble in the soil. Its nitrogen, from nitric acid, is the most available form known to chemistry; the other part, from undecomposed animal matter, is preferable to the vegetable salts in Peruvian Guano. I ask of each of you the kindness of a thorough examination of the accompanying analyses by two of the great chemists of the country. With respect, yours truly,
WM. R. GRIFFITH, General Agent.

THE COMPANY GUARANTEES THAT EVERY CARGO WILL BE ANALYZED BEFORE IT IS OFFERED FOR SALE.

LETTER FROM PROF. WM. C. KERR, STATE GEOLOGIST OF NORTH CAROLINA:
Raleigh, N. C., January 17th, 1874.

Wm. R. Griffith, Esq., General Agent Guanahani Guano Company, Petersburg, Virginia.

Dear Sir: Dr. F. A. Genth, whose analyses of the Guanahani Guano you have shown me is a Chemical Micrologist to the Geological Survey, and has no superior as a chemist. I have no hesitation in endorsing any analysis from his laboratory, and I think the analysis justifies his statement that the substance examined by him is a VALUABLE MANURE.

From his report, and that of Prof. Wilson, it is evidently a TRUE GUANO, both in origin and composition, and its action on crops may be expected to be the same in kind and in degree proportioned to its relative per centage of the valuable ingredients—Phosphoric Acid, Ammonia and Potash, that of the first being unusually high.

Yours truly,
WM. C. KERR, State Geologist.

ANALYSES.
The following analyses of different cargoes and samples by two of the leading chemists of the country, are given for the guidance of the public:

LETTER FROM PROF. P. B. WILSON, LATE ASSISTANT OF BARON J. VON LIEBIG.
CHEMICAL LABORATORY OF PROF. P. B. WILSON, No. 30 Second Street, Baltimore, December 1st, 1873.

MAJ. N. M. TANNER, President Guanahani Guano Company, Petersburg, Va.

Dear Sir: I have drawn samples of the Guano, as it has arrived in cargo lots, and find it containing a valuable amount of Phosphoric Acid, and when dried is a pale brown powder. This is combined with Lime, and is of animal origin, and readily assimilable by plants. It contains potential ammonia and nitric acid, having a combined Nitrogen value equal to from 2 to 3 per cent. of ammonia, with the alkalies Potash and Soda, and valuable proportions of Sulphate of Lime. The whole forming a very desirable manure for all crops, and when applied to land, the crop receiving proper tillage, must, in my opinion, give as good results as any guano offered to the farmer.

Being of animal origin, the organic matter has undergone partial decomposition, and is readily converted into a valuable amount of humus, and when dried is a pale brown powder, much greater than fertilizers which are compounded largely of Peruvian Guano, which, beyond its ammonia and small phosphoric value, has little or no power in absorbing the moisture and retaining it in the soil the movable elements absorbed by moisture and brought down by the rains, as the guano you are now placing upon the market. It contains a considerable quantity of water (about 20 per cent.), and when dried is a pale brown powder, much greater than fertilizers which are compounded

WASHINGTON, March 18.—For the Gulf States southerly winds and falling temperature followed by rising barometer and partly cloudy weather.

Death of the Governor of Florida.
JACKSONVILLE, FLA., March 18.—O. B. Hart, Governor of Florida, after a lingering illness, died in this city at 5 o'clock this evening.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The House Leaves the Public Business and Goes to see the Ship Launched—Proceedings in the Senate—More Public Lands Wanted.
WASHINGTON, March 18.—No quorum in the House to-day, but several speeches were made on the transportation question. A majority of the members visited Chester to witness a ship launch.

SENATE.—A memorial was presented from a lady of New York, saying that the temperance tide wave would soon reach Washington, and asking that the praying women be received at the bar of the Senate, and that Carpenter, Chandler and Sprague be appointed a committee to receive them. (Laughter.) The petition was referred.

A petition was presented for the removal of the disabilities of Thomas Hardy, of Macon.

There was considerable debate in regard to fixing the time for taking a vote on the finance question, Sherman submitting a proposition that, after the passage of the Army Bill, it be taken up and pressed to a vote; two days being allowed for the general debate, and after that speeches not to exceed ten minutes each. All who spoke admitted the importance of some action, as the country is awaiting the result to shape the Spring business. No action on Sherman's order, which comes up again to-morrow.

Davis, of West Virginia, made a speech on finance, after which the Senate adjourned. The bill was taken up and about half finished, all the committee amendments being agreed to. This bill was taken up to-day with the understanding that if Senators are ready to pursue the financial debate to-morrow it will be laid aside.

A bill was introduced granting public lands in Florida and Alabama to aid in the construction of a Railroad. It grants the right of way through public lands to Daniel P. Holland, proprietor of the Jacksonville, Pensacola & Mobile Railroad for the construction of a road from the present terminus of said road, at Chattahoochee, to the city of Mobile, Ala., and the city of Pensacola, Fla., and from St. John's river to the right to take from the public lands, adjacent to the line of the material for its construction, and grants public lands to the road to an amount not exceeding twenty acres for each ten miles in length of main line of road.
